Emily Fagg

Thompson Rivers University

Emily Fagg is a fourth-year Bachelor of Science student majoring in chemistry at Thompson Rivers University (TRU) in Kamloops. During her university career, she has completed co-op placements at both large and small-scale chemistry labs. She has conducted two analytical research projects and has presented her findings at conferences in Kamloops, Vancouver, Ottawa, and Saskatoon. Additionally, Emily mentors first-year university students at TRU and high school students in rural communities through Rural eMentoring BC. When Emily is not studying, she likes to golf, play pickleball, and go on hikes.
